

Equb System — Rules & Guidelines

Placeholder document — replace this file with your organization's official rules.

1. Membership

- Every member must register with a full name and valid contact phone number.
- A member may join more than one Equb group at a time.
- Once a member wins a payout in a group's cycle, they remain a paying member until the cycle completes.

2. Contributions

- Each group has a fixed contribution amount and payment frequency, set when the group is created.
- Contributions for the current round must be collected from every active member before that round's draw can take place.
- Contribution records are kept per member and are visible to the group organizer at any time.

3. The Draw

- One member is selected at random to receive that round's payout, using a cryptographically secure random draw.
- A member who has already won in the current cycle is not eligible to win again until the cycle restarts.
- The payout amount is fixed for the entire cycle, so every winner — first or last — receives the same amount.

4. Conduct

- Members are expected to make their contribution on time each round.
- Repeated late or missed payments may result in removal from the group at the organizer's discretion.
